Baroque Violinist Jeanne Lamon

conducts a

String Masterclass

Jeanne Lamon has specialized in the performance of baroque and classical music on period instruments since 1972, winning the coveted Erwin Bodky Award for Early Music Performance in 1974. She has been concertmaster and music director of Tafelmusik since 1981. Under her leadership, the orchestra has grown from a fledgling chamber ensemble to an internationally acclaimed period instrument orchestra with over sixty concerts annually. Ms. Lamon has been signed, with Tafelmusik, to a long term major recording contract with SONY Classical and extensive touring. Aside from her work with Tafelmusik, Jeanne Lamon is also active as a chamber musician and teacher. She is on the faculties of the Royal Conservatory and the University of Toronto. This December, Ms. Lamon will record Vivaldi's Four Seasons for Sony.
